	Endless Alphabet	Love this app! Words appear on screen, then the monsters run through the word scattering the letters. Student then has to put letters back in the right place (word outline is left). Whenever the student picks up the letter, it makes the letter sound appropriate for its context in that word. Once the student has the word correct, the app shows an animation demonstrating the meaning of the word. Very popular with kids of a variety of abilities.	Literacy

APP DIRECTORY - DESCRIPTIONS AND PRICES

	Endless Reader	Similar to Endless alphabet – starts with word and student has to put letters back in place. However, once this is done, a sentence will come up using the word, and the student will have to put the word in the appropriate place, along with another couple of words which will be missing. When they touch the word, the app says the word to them. Then there is an animation demonstrating the sentence. Can buy more words in packs.	Literacy
	Endless Wordplay	Word families. First word, outline of letter, then only first letter, then no letters. After completed word family, sentence using words, then progress to next task. Again, have to buy as you progress.	Literacy
	Splingo	Developed by SLP's to help children with listening and language skills. They have to complete tasks at a level set by you – instructions with from 1 to 4 main words, and which types of word (noun, verb, preposition, adjectives). For example "Put the small eggs on the house". After completing a set number correctly, they have to help the character Splingo build his spaceship, fuel it and so on. Very repetitive in nature, but I find kids get absorbed in it and like the break to help with the spaceship.	Literacy
	Sight Word Bingo	App which develops skills in recognising and spelling sight words. Allows you to pick level from pre-K up to grade 3, and only nouns or all words. Allows for students to enter name and create their character. First choice is to play word bingo or spelling practice. Once completed game, they get a "bingo bug" and then get the option of playing a game with the bingo bugs, but which still practices words. Pupils at all levels seem to really like this game.	Literacy
